

Distinct Society

The 1967 Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism described Canada as being constituted of "two great distinct cultures" — English and French — with a "distinct society" residing in Quebec and an "English-speaking society" in the Rest of Canada (ROC). The